MESSAGES FROM ADMIN

Thanks to you, truth, courage, caring, individuality and community flourished at GNS in the 2018/2019 School Year. What made GNS a great was in large part due to you embracing our values and working to make them very strong. Our success was also rooted in our three IB programmes—the PYP, the MYP and the DP—where students were inspired to embrace the attributes of the IB Learner Profile such as being an inquirer, a risk-taker or being caring to name three. Whether you were student, a faculty member, staff member or a parent, the great effort and enthusiasm you contributed on a regular basis made GNS' values tangible and robust. You were committed to making GNS even better and contributing to making the year very positive and rewarding for yourself and others. I applaud and thank you.

You provided clear, candid and tactful feedback speaking up when something appeared to be off-kilter or just not true. You also made it safe for others to speak up and worked to ensure our world was better in areas ranging from how we treat others to how we look after our planet. You were courageous and took risks trying new activities even if they looked hard. When you thought you might mess up the first, second or third time you just did it. At the same time, you supported others at GNS to venture out of their comfort zones. You encouraged others to try making them feel good about being involved and being sure to say, 'Nice try!' and really mean it.

As an individual, you recognized that it was more than okay to be yourself. You discovered new ideas and explored things you loved as you developed your distinct talents and interests. You also actively encouraged and recognized your peers and colleagues to become the best version of themselves as they defined their own version of success. Most importantly, you actively engaged in helping others to be happy. You made time and put forth effort to make life better for others in the GNS community as well as those around the world. You created opportunities to help others and eagerly took part in service activities. As part of this you selflessly gave of your time, your expertise and your resources.

You made the year at GNS great. I applaud and thank you for doing your best.

Glenn Zederayko
Head of School

We have had an incredibly successful year in the Senior School.

Throughout the year, at assemblies and at other appropriate events, we have acknowledged the successes of our Grade 12 students. We are very proud of the accomplishments of all our students in the Senior School, most especially in the way they care and support each other in their quest to do their very best. A successful school year only occurs with the concerted and coordinated efforts of everyone in the community. Using our GNS Values of Truth, Courage, Caring, Individuality, and Community let's look at how your songs have grown and how they might continue to evolve:

TRUTH & COURAGE: You've shown that your songs are authentic (no cover songs here!) They are true to yourselves and others. Your songs display integrity and honesty in their makeup. You have been courageous in your ability to share your song with others. I encourage you to continue to allow your song to be vulnerable. As author and speaker, Brene Brown shares, "Vulnerability is uncertainty, risk and emotional exposure, but it is also the birthplace of courage, love, joy, empathy and creativity."

CARING: Your songs are filled with so many examples of empathy. They have inspired others towards action and in doing their very best. Continue to look for ways to help others around you, especially those whom are less fortunate and perhaps are unable to sing their songs as strongly as you. I am confident that this is one area in which you will stay focussed. Caring songs may sometimes sound like a soft ballad to create a sense of reflection and calm, and at other times, they will be strong, deliberate and even possibly revolutionary!

INDIVIDUALITY: Each one of you is unique, there is not another like you, nor will there ever be. What a wonderful opportunity each of us is presented to create a song like no one else. What is it about you that makes you so? Humour, wit, humility, intelligence, kindness, reflectiveness, impulsivity—the list is endless. Your song needs to represent all of these characteristics. What does that sound like? Rock and roll, jazz, classical, hip hop, country—or maybe a fusion of many of these together. Be yourselves.

And finally, COMMUNITY: While you do have a unique song to share, it has come from the collaboration and influence of those important individuals around you—friends, family, mentors, teachers and coaches. Your song has evolved because of these people and I encourage you to continue to find and listen to these vital connections ensuring they are encouraging you, but also challenging your assumptions and creating some necessary tension in your views. Think of those amazing songs when two wickedly talented artists collaborate - one of my all time favourites is Queen and David Bowie's song 'Under Pressure'.

TO OUR GRADS:

The wonderful extension of this metaphor is that your song has only just begun. You will continue to develop it as you head to your post-secondary opportunities and beyond. Please don't lose sight of these key values that have allowed you craft your songs during your time at GNS. I can't stress enough—"sing, sing out loud, sing out strong." Close your eyes and belt it out—think David during an assembly! I will close at the place I began, using Elton John's final stanza of his beautiful ballad "Your Song" and I'll try to model some courage I've asked you to show:

*The words are:
I hope you don't mind, I hope you don't mind,
That I put down in words
(SING) How wonderful life is, when you're in the world*

Grad Class of 2019, Leaders ready to harmonize, challenge and lead. I am confident you have, and will continue to make a true difference in the world. We are proud of you, Gryphons. "Sing Your Best Through Truth and Courage"

Doug Palm
Senior School
Principal

I have seen examples of kindness shared across the Middle School in so many ways this year, such as: an uplifting band recital in a seniors home, helping prepare meals at the Mustard Seed, collecting warm socks for those in need at Christmas, helping younger children with golf lessons, volunteering at Harry Potter camp, removing invasive plants from Uplands Park or planning and taking part in '100 Girls Victoria' or—my list is long and this is a tiny snapshot.

The ability to be kind in this way gives everyone a sense of presence and meaning. It adds to our belief in the positivity of our community. It helps us to celebrate together.

These are just the sorts of values we foster, celebrate and share with each other in the continual team that is GNS.

And so, to the students here in this team: You have done your very best through truth and courage – by throwing yourself in all sort of directions into Camp Qwanoes, or in promoting house spirit, or your fund raising, or your support and action to promote and sustain our environment, or being inspired by Terry Fox or by Darren Laur, or 'Plastic Oceans', by your brilliance when you represent GNS together, or performing in The Lion, the Witch and the Wardrobe, or volunteering at the Mustard Seed or Haliburton Farms, or doing something new and persevering with it, or for showing your warmth, care, and compassion to a friend.

The values you bring to school everyday are just brilliant. You show me how often 'you are greater than.'

And to our parents: your care and support are quite amazing—by being the on call taxi of choice, by helping to run the lunch program, by listening and advocating for your children and our school, by being a supporter of our teams (no matter the weather), of our musicians, our debaters, our athletes, our actors, our artists—you support our GNS.

And to the Middle School staff here: the care and compassion you show each and every day is just remarkable and unending. You help to ensure we are the community of active learners and of open-minded individuals who are prepared to have a go, no matter what. You create a sense of safety and of value in others, and you enable our students to feel just that. This sort of kindness is a very powerful thing indeed.

Jake Burnett
Middle School
Principal

What a year we have had! We started in September with a motto for the year, Caring Acts Can Change the World, and our students proved this time and again!

We raised money for Cops for Cancer, we took on becoming a much more environmentally aware school by reducing our garbage from tens and tens of huge garbage bags each week to less than one full bag per week.

Our students worked hard, played hard and proudly showed off their work by way of Seesaw and Student-Led Conferences. Our youngest students moved into the new buildings and the Grade 2s took up temporary residence in the Boathouse. Forts were built at the beach, beehives installed at Shady Lane and big buddies helped little buddies in every classroom. It was a year of caring, empathy, community and lots of fun with learning.

This yearbook is a wonderful memento of another terrific year in our very special school. Enjoy.

A NEW YEAR AT PEMBERTON WOODS

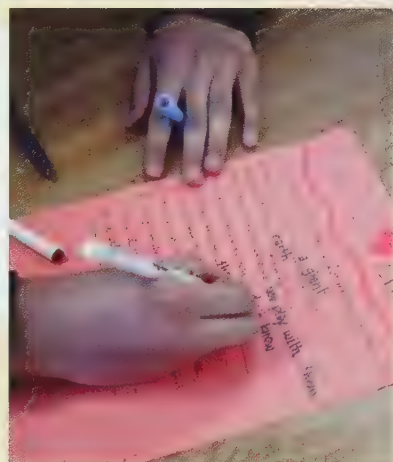

CAMP DAVID

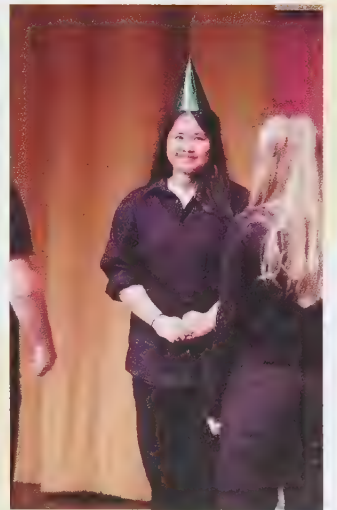

Poetry Collab

Having studied the many forms and purposes of poetry, the Grade 10s adapted odes and sonnets to fill-in-the-blank sheets and welcomed Grade 1 poetry buddies to the Senior School campus for some lively collaborative poetry writing. Once the Grade 1s got rolling, the coloured paper was flying off the tables!

WORKING TOGETHER

The Senior and Junior students had lots of opportunities to collaborate!

Kid Theatre with the Grade 5s!

Back in April, the IB Theatre students gave the Grade 3s a list of titles of plays and novels—and no other context or information. The Grade 3s then wrote seven very imaginative, action-packed, hilarious plays.

COOKIE SCIENCE

Every year, young scientists from the Beach visit Pemberton Woods to learn about chemistry—and cookies!

Writing Stories

Mr. Lundgren's Writing 12 class worked with Grade 1s over a number of weeks to write and illustrate their own storybooks.

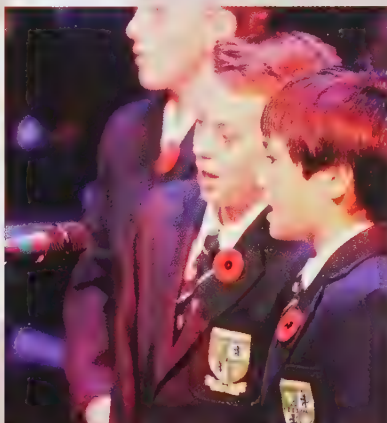

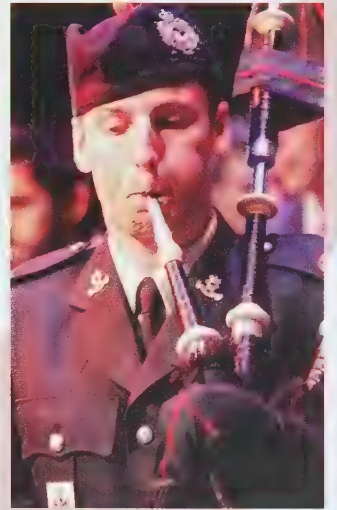

Terry Fox Run & Orange Shirt Day

In September, the whole school came together for a run on the turf field in honour of Canadian hero Terry Fox. They wore orange to support the the Orange Shirt initiative.

REMEMBRANCE DAY

In November, Pemberton Woods gathered to honour those who fought—and still fight today—for our freedom.

During our Spring Break Surf Camp, students got a rare opportunity to experience Canada's best surf town!

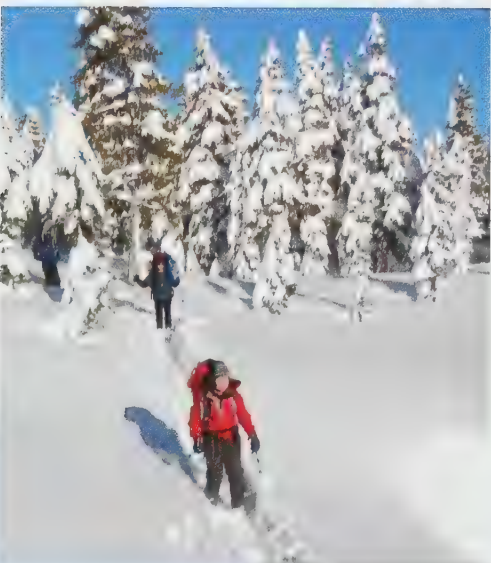

OUTDOOR EDUCATION

The goal of the Outdoor Education program at Glenlyon Norfolk School is to provide students with the outdoor travel and living skills needed to develop self-reliance in the wilderness and stewardship for the natural world.

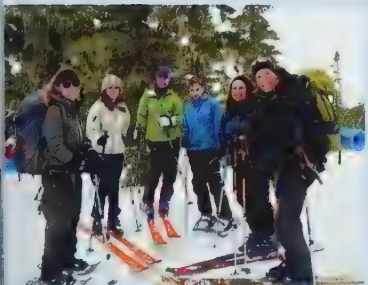

SNOW CAMP

Last year, many students travelled to Mount Washington to experience Winter Camps!

Wintertime Fun

MONTREAL SPECTACULAR

At the beginning of February, over 30 GNS students in Grades 8 to 10 travelled to Québec to experience French Canadian culture.

"On this trip, we learnt so much about a side of Canadian culture that the majority of us had never experienced before. Some were able to pick up a new language, find many ways of eating traditional Québécois poutine, desserts, and anything involving maple, and even learn to embrace the frigid temperatures! We also embarked on many different experiences like snowshoeing and tobogganing; we watched parades, visited the Ice Palace, went bowling, and even stopped at a traditional sugar shack."

Marché aux Puces

Every year, Grade 8 French students put on a spectacular market for all of Pemberton Woods—en Français!

GROUP IV SCIENCE

This year for their Group IV project, Grade 11 students used their chemistry, physics and biology skills to solve non-violent crimes devised by their teachers.

Ms. Dallin, Mr. Irvine and Ms. Mikes decided on the forensics theme as a fun way to get the students thinking and asking questions. They worked on the case files together, creating detailed scenarios and planting all the evidence necessary for the students to solve the crimes.

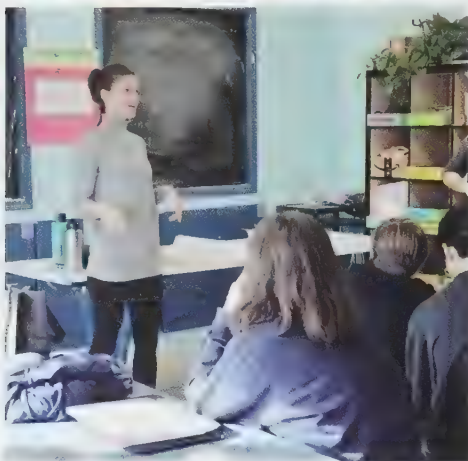

Detective Work

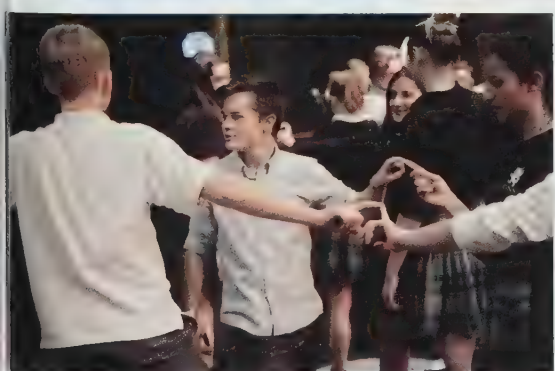

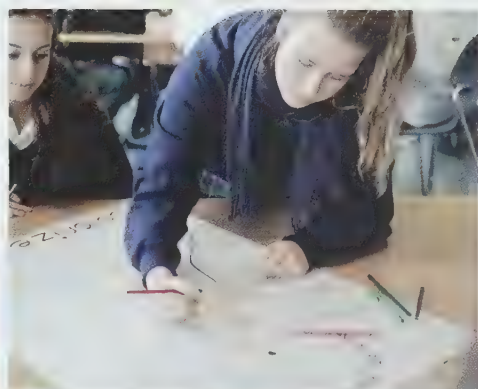

In order to solve their crimes, students needed to extract DNA, analyze projectile motion, and identify metals in soil, among many other steps.

While not all students correctly solved the crime, the activity allowed them to work together to apply their knowledge in creative ways!

Mark Barr

Not one to "toot his own horn," Mark is quite simply a virtuoso on the trumpet. He plays music like he approaches life—with equal parts purpose and whimsy. Mark's knowledge of trivia, his dry wit, and his dapper fashion sense would have you believe he has time travelled here from the 1960's, or perhaps the 1860's.
After Mark
commences his musical ventures at the University of Victoria,
Mr. Thompson will miss conversing with him about the minute liner details on the Miles Davis album
"Kind of Blue."

We asked everyone and nobody could find anything bad to say about "Bettsy." He is Mahatma Gandhi Betts, house dad, gentleman and friend to all: always the first to volunteer with a big grin. He is a really really REALLY good guy—and a Lifer.
After attending UVIC,
Iain plans a triumphant return to GNS to oust
Mr. Pawar as a soccer coach and PE teacher and maybe even take over: Head Master
Bettsy.

Iain Betts

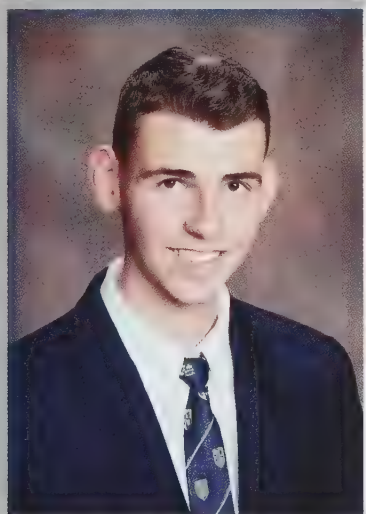

Amelia Brown

Leader, brilliant diploma candidate, athlete, ever-ironic MUNer and divine flute player, Amelia always knows what she wants. She is respected for her willingness to hear the other side and ability to argue just about any issue that comes her way. Next year Amelia will attain her pilot's licence before she embarks on her destiny to change the Canadian political landscape from the inside out at the Royal Military College, studying political science.

I quote the esteemed authority, Mr. Carson Rust—Cassidy is "Her own person, free flying," "has best giggle." Other peers noted that Cassidy takes care of them and supports them with her innate compassion, zesty sense of humour and unique perspective on the world. Cassidy will explore criminology at Ottawa's Carleton University; we know her ability to persevere through challenges with energy and commitment will serve her well in her future law career.

Cassidy Brumby

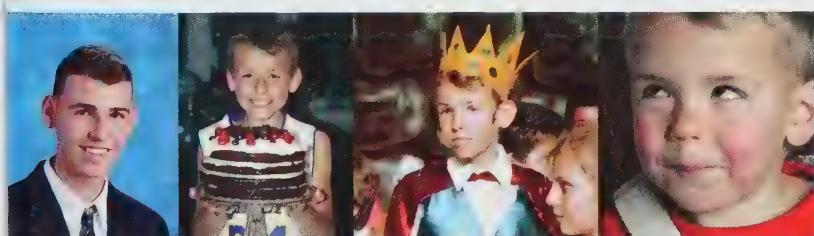

Jack Brunkan

When a quiet, little—okay, really tall—American boy suddenly arrived in our closely knit Grade 12 class and showed up cold turkey at the Grad Campout we knew that anyone with the guts to do that was definitely a keeper! From then on, our superb diploma candidate and amazing athlete adopted nicknames that stuck. "Brunko," "Jackie Moon" and "Frozone" will attend Santa Clara University in California and we know that "the Brunkin' keeps on 'dunkin'."

Mr. Thorau once woke Curtis up by knocking loudly on his window, so we are honoured that K-dawg is awake with us today. Our sleepy boy is a paradox, however. Sleepy—but not. A devil-may-care facade, but ferociously hard-working. Stylishly unconcerned, yet a tender caregiver to wounded raccoons that wander into his bedroom. Curtis intends to train as a vet, doctor or a dentist at Queens, between naps.

Curtis Chan

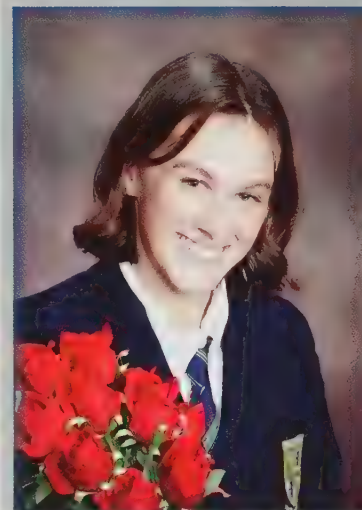

Clifton Chim

"Dimples" Clifton melts our hearts—an includer, a social butterfly, star of his own indie, "Yellow Panther," and a meat eater. A generous fellow, he is the first person on his feet to give a peer a standing ovation. In his next chapter, diploma candidate Clifton will stroll the streets of the University of Toronto St. George campus while he daydreams about creating a new app or launching a company. Clifton will miss his GNS family, especially "his boys" Riley and Quinn.

Manon, aka Mo, does not conform to social norms or boundaries; she follows the beat of her own drum. When not devouring her newest book, Mo is often heard telling it like it is to whomever will listen. Her quick dry wit and ability to use any accent is pleasing for us all. Mo is proud of how far she has progressed. Her stellar work ethic has propelled her into art history and visual arts studies at UVIC. As Kate would say, Go MO, go!

Manon Damant

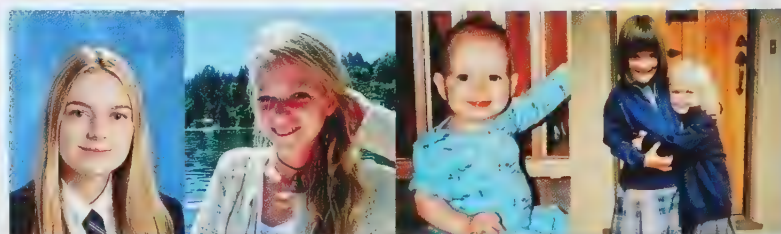

Kevin Dang

Kevin Dang is best known for his untamable pokey hair and almost earning 100% in Mr. Irvine's Physics class. He is a warm, friendly and self-deprecating fellow. He's basically one "Dapper Dude." Throughout his four years at GNS, Kevin dabbled in a variety of sports teams and social groups, eventually landing comfortably with the basketball boys and leading the SAC committee. Kevin will undertake computer science at UBC, remaining Pacific Side in Canada.

Our sweet and humble Fallyn has been showcasing her talents at GNS for 14 years! A highlight was to be a child of the GNS "Dram Fam," performing in all senior school productions. Another memorable moment was hearing Ms. Chatterton's story about her dog murdering a goose at a wedding. Yes, this happened, and perhaps "Falcon" will write or act this on stage one day. Our dearest Belle plans to begin her adventure after the diploma in the great wide world of UBC, where she will study English and Theatre.

Fallyn Denford

Alessandra Di Frassineto

Alessandra di Frassineto. The name suggests the persona: her refined love of beauty, creativity, culture. As an artist, Ale thinks outside the box—in Grade 10 she produced a book of pictures and stories about ugly vegetables, exposing the beauty of each one. Indeed, Ale sees the beauty in everything and everyone and everyone sees the beauty in her. How Italian of her! So ciao bella, as you venture into media production at Ryerson and explore the unknown of the creative universe.

Rachel always has a twinkle in her eye and the look of someone who has just gotten away with... something.

A lifer, she has fond memories of trading crabs and conkers on the beach. Always the adventurer, artist and "Dear Rachel" romantic advice columnist; she has done a lot at GNS and her friends say Rachel is the force to be reckoned with, weakened only by her love of birkenstocks. She is looking forward to flying the gryphon coop and heading to Dalhousie University for arts and social sciences.

Rachel Diment

Noah Fekete

At every provincial basketball tournament, our Taekwondo black belt Noah Fekete ate two boxes of gushers, unleashed his pent-up energy and brutalized his own team, lashing them with—licorice sticks. Yes, we think this sums up our gentle giant. He may tower over us all, but Noah is an amazing mentor to the youn' uns with a proverbial heart of gold. Next year will find Noah in Recreation and Health Education at UVIC, en route to a career in the allied sports field.

When Agustina is not "egg-beating" in the water polo National Championship League she is just—ho hum—Round Square Prefect, a natural leader, a top scholar and diploma candidate at GNS. She handles her gruelling schedule with such easy grace and appreciation for the absurd. We apologize for gushing, but how can one avoid it when Agustina is in town? In ten years time, after her studies at UBC, our paragon hopes to be a civil and environmental engineer working in underdeveloped communities.

Agustina Flores Pitton

Gaby Girard

Gaby is an optimistic force field, maternal matriarch to all the little chicks and young speech arts students who huddle around her warm feathers. She seems to be such a mild-mannered and perfect ambassador prefect and diploma candidate, "but though she be but little, she is fierce." Fierce guardian of the costume loft, fierce movie maker, and even fiercer actress. Before Gabi leaves us for Theatre Performance at Dalhousie University next year, she would like to thank her mum and dad for—well—everything.

Siobhan is a fantastic big sister, not just to her four sisters but to her friends as well. Her sailing exploits confirm that Shebobo can navigate the choppy waters of the ocean as well as she can her life—juggling her devotion to the sport alongside her prowess at 3 musical instruments and her status as a DP candidate. This ability to excel in so many areas will ensure that Siobhan will sail through post secondary life in the engineering program at UVic.

Siobhan Golonka

Nicole Gonin

The high-fliers sometimes attract a little envy, but never Nicole, because of her humility and—yes, we have to say it—goofiness: "where IS the Calgary Stampede?" she once asked. A typical Nicole environmental prefect moment is to tenderly prop up a fallen homeform sunflower plant with a toothpick, muttering "it's okay little guy" and then collapsing into a full-body Nicole chortle. She takes her insatiable curiosity with her ("I was just wondering...") as she moves on from the diploma to UBC or UVic for engineering.

Chris once claimed that the earth orbited the sun—not because of gravity, but because it wanted to be warm. Chris Logic. The only kind. Our lifer, gifted sportsman, and charismatic games captain Chris Graham has been inspiring us all since kindergarten, when he was Leader of the East Side Boys on the Beach—champion of Sea Glass Trade. His leadership and endless effort is for da boys and for all of us, really. Chris, we know you will continue to give 120% effort as you embark on your commerce degree at Queen's University.

Christopher Graham

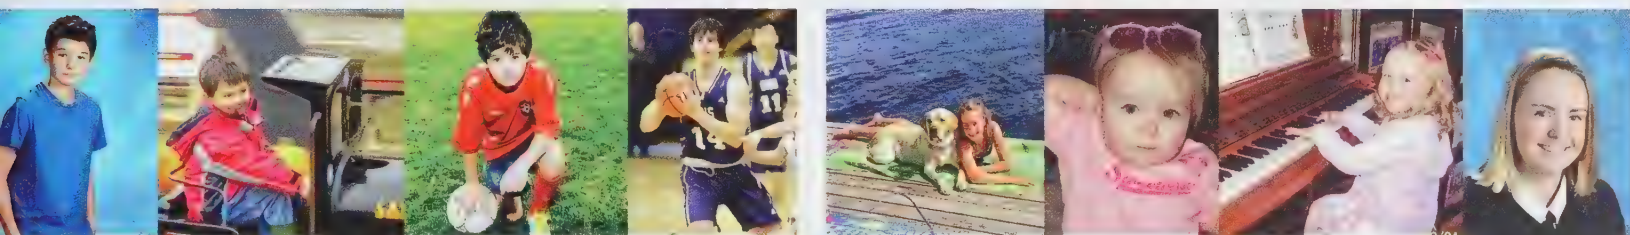

Thomas Healey

Everybody loves Thomas. No matter when, no matter where, Thomas will strike up a conversation with you. And you will feel—a little better! Surprisingly, during his excitable career in basketball, soccer and rugby, fearless Touille, Crusty or CRunt never actually broke a limb on campus, although he tried really hard. Next year, Thomas will study Social sciences at UVic—if he survives his cluster housing with Wells and Startek.

Having been at GNS for 11 years, Sydney's favourite memory was the Hawaii band trip where she loved hiking, time on the beach and Javanese music. Although she is a passionate photographer and musician, science will be her field of study at the University of Alberta where she will focus on psychology and biology and other ologies. Sydney will remember photo club, her friends and her teachers with fondness. Keep smiling Squidney!

Sydney Hemphill

David Huang

David Huang may have played The Beast in this year's musical, but he always signs his emails "Handsome young man." Along with humour and charm, David insists on carrying around his ten thousand pound backpack; Mr. Stanley asks him daily "are you trying to run away from home?" While David is studying Animation in OCAD next year, we will miss his cookery and artistic skills, and, above all, those occasions when the whole assembly waves their phone flashlights in tribute to his pop star singing magic.

If our funny, kind Nancy sees someone without a smile, she gives them one of hers. Her homeform buddies counted on her daily "Nancy lockerside therapy" and her brother David counted on her to drive him to school as he snoozed in the passenger seat, cocooned in a duvet. An artist extraordinaire who can sing, dance and design, Nancy has maintained her equilibrium and good humour through all the vicissitudes of high school. With her 'ironically' Gucci taste, she ventures to the big city to study fashion design at Ryerson.

Nancy Huang

Aniela Jarvis

Aniela—'Grandma' to her friends and dependents—is single-handedly responsible for the successful graduation of at least three GNS students this year. She has genuine intellectual curiosity and has always taken her studies very seriously, even fainting on her teacher after "the glue-gun incident." A lifer, Diploma Candidate, choir member and lover of calculus, we will miss Aniela's conspiratorial smile, but hope she will return from computer studies at UVic to whip us into shape once again.

Space, the final frontier. These are the voyages of Mei Kanda. Her three-year mission at GNS: to explore strange new worlds (chemistry classes), to seek out new life (in petri dishes) and new civilizations (the dining hall), and to boldly go where no WOMAN has gone before (the diploma). This is our incredibly nice cultural prefect Kanda Panda. Next planetary assignment? The University of Toronto faculty of Environmental and Physical Sciences to study astro-physics. She is grateful to her earthing homestay family for all their love and support.

Mei Kanda

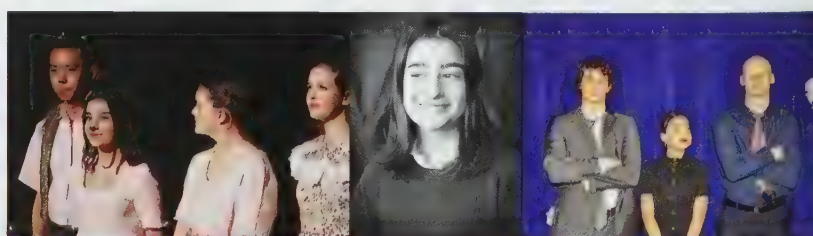

Claire Kang

Claire had a rough introduction to Canada—Mr. Stanley told her that Canadian history was boring and he didn't like kids on her first day. Luckily, she flourished despite him, becoming a confident IB Diploma scholar and a gifted flautist—the perfect student. Her friends say they will miss her perseverance and grace next year—and the way she collapses in laughter—as she basks in the sunshine of the Georgia Tech University biomedical engineering program.

There is something about Gulsen—a charming refusal to colour between the lines. Described by her friends as generous and kind, Gulsen joined us in Grade 11 via Dubai and threw herself into a plethora of activities—undertaking the Diploma, doing make-up for school plays and even playing on a sports team for the first time. Next year Gulsen will ponder the meaning of things in UBC's philosophy program, and we wish her well in her future adventures.

Gulsen Kutluay

Michelle Lee

Michelle hopes that she is a closed-book, an enigma, a mystery, but she fears she is simply confused. For example, Michelle tells us she was once accidentally engaged online—she said she was 19, but was, in fact, 8. Luckily her computer broke and our child bride was no more. Based on her homeform Secret Santa gifts of liquor-filled chocolates, it is possible she has a wild side, but she isn't sure. We do know that she has made a steady profit this year by taking over, and renting out other students' lockers. Next year our fascinating entrepreneur will be completing a BSc at UVic.

Bree didn't know she was a powder keg both on and off the field until she played rugby. We have always known, though. Way back in pre-school, Mrs. Graham knew that Bree's enthusiasm was contagious and her peers have always said the name "Bree" and the word "angel" in the same breath. Her insight and her passion for learning and helping others has led her to service experiences working with children and drives her towards Psychology and General Sciences at UVic next year. Her goal is to work as a child psychiatrist. Lucky children.

Bree McElvaine

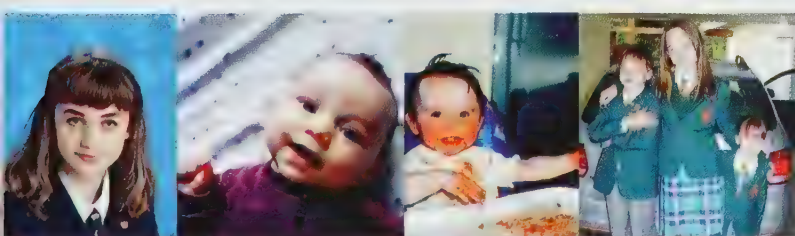

Kate McIntyre

Kate dabbled with Middle School emo before coming of age in the GNS Senior School. She's an amazing artist, a scholar, and Captain of the Volleyball Team. And when the soccer team was short a player and non-soccer player Kate was forced on the field, she scored a goal. That's Kate. A woman with gumption, never afraid to stand up for what she believes and the loyalest friend too, say those closest to her. Next year, Kate will be attending UBC for Arts with the hope of pursuing environmental design.

Annie gives of herself—literally—she has given her own hair to kids with cancer. Small but sweet. Captain of soccer and field hockey, Captain of our school, Zesty Hostess of gluten free treats and a glorious writer. Whether on a team, working on an environmental initiative, researching for science fair, or singing her heart out as Belle in Beauty and the Beast, Annie gives completely—utterly. We will miss her smiley face, but know that she will contribute to this world after her science education at UBC.

Annie McLeod

Robin Meng

Robin, our Renaissance Man, our Mathematical Thespian. Whether Larabee, Lefou or Jimbo, Robin's dark humor and quick mind added a twist to the character. We remember his sword routine at assembly—terrifying and beautiful—and his attack on a defenseless clock. He helps a lot too, be it with Math homework, starting a Werewolf club for those of the furry and lunar inclination or coaching Tae Kwon Do. Our future mathematics teacher says he will miss everyone when he moves to UBC or Waterloo. Show us your moves, Black Belt warrior!

A dedicated artist, Henry has been filling sketchbooks with just about everything since he arrived at GNS. He is a font of knowledge with a passion for history, and can tell you everything you'd ever want to know from biology to battleships. Henry's great strength is his power of observation, and not just in the detailed linework of his drawings. He doesn't miss a thing—and that is what makes him both amusing and a good writer. Next year, Henry will put his acuity to good use as he begins his studies at the University of Victoria.

Henry Morrison

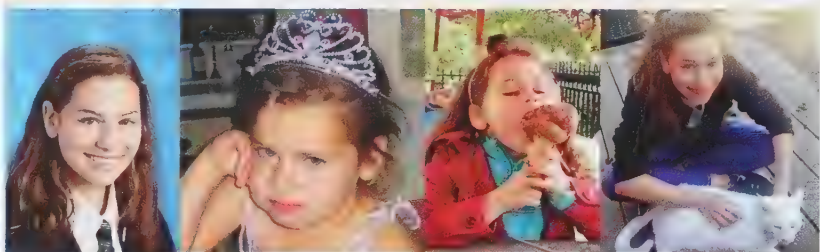

Isabella Moyer

Izzy joined us in Grade 6 at a whopping 41/2 feet tall—barely noticeable given the size of her personality and at times, her opinions. After several years and dollars contributed to her orthodontist's retirement, Izzy was reborn as the brilliant firecracker/arts prefect who loves a good cry—a creative force-field of writing, dancing and acting. Izzy, as you study arts at UBC in preparation for being a mum to many cats and red-haired children, we will all watch for updates on your culinary Instagram account @professionalmooch.

Julia is more mature than most of her teachers; she should give US lessons in time management. A whirling dervish of energy, Julia appears to be in many places at the same time: rugby, soccer, field hockey—and acing the Diploma. She is a bold woman with a sparkle in her eye—confident enough to star in her own Grade 5 production of "Clowns." We look forward to hearing about her engineering education at Queens and witnessing the impact she will have on the world.

Julia Newcombe

Kaya Oro Martin

In cycling parlance, Kaya's initials, K-O-M, means King of the Mountains—the one who sets themselves apart by reaching for great peaks. Her drive, intelligence and vision does set Kaya apart—a top scholar who drives a motorcycle, Female Games Captain in both Middle and Senior School, pigeon master for her Personal Project, and profitable chair of the Guava Candy Company in Middle School. GNS' loss is UNBC's gain as Kaya launches herself into Environmental Engineering and varsity soccer.

Quiet and charming—though an avid fan of "The Walking Dead"—Miyu is a motivated IB Diploma candidate who strives to do her best in academics. Miyu has not yet decided on sociology at chilly UBC or marketing at The University of Hawaii—toasty! Tough choice! It is hard to imagine Miyu without the company of Mei, but wherever they end up, they will be forever bonded. Miyu is very grateful to her aunt and uncle for their enduring support and grateful to her parents for giving her the GNS experience.

Miyu Osamura

Samantha Patrick

Even in pre-school, our clever Sam was deemed "too advanced" for naptime. Whether in the classroom or on the volleyball court or mastering The Legend of Zelda, Sam is ahead of the game—cool and collected. Our kind-hearted and unassuming Grad Prefect not only ensured the Grade 12s rocked their blue and green stripes this year, she finessed the sax in Jazz and Concert Band. We bid this bilingual dynamo bien sûr at Concordia, Montreal(!) where she will enter the computer science program with a specialization in game design.

A guide to Canada describes Canadians as "polite, unpretentious, generous, friendly, practical, peace-loving, modest, healthy, loyal..." Wait a minute! They're describing Ian Prescott. As for modest, when asked how he did in a high-level tennis tournament with international competition, he replied "Okay" when he had been a star. In basketball, he logged over 500 miles in two years on the senior team on two bad knees and never complained. We wish our quintessential Canadian all the best in humanities at UVic.

Ian Prescott

Eli Ramraj

Eli caused a surge in our city's electric current when he arrived at our school by way of Singapore and London. He had already written and published the first of four novels—when he was 9 years old! An IB Diploma candidate and natural polymath, he has talents in math, writing, debate, acting and—ultimate frisbee. After our Headboy Eli finishes his film and humanities studies at the University of Toronto, we know that the next time he speaks to an assembly of people, it will be at the Oscars and he will be winning his first—no—his third best picture award.

Carson Rust is an original, witty and gregarious fellow—a familiar face and sound around the GNS campus. Carson has entrenched himself in our collective memory as the man whose Justin Bieber playlist was banned in Art and who, when something goes wrong on stage bellows “JUST A SEC” out of the booth, cracks down on his wasabi peas and runs hell-bent to fix the problem. We wish we could keep our service prefect around to fix all our problems, but alas, he is off to Western for business, media and theatre.

Carson Rust

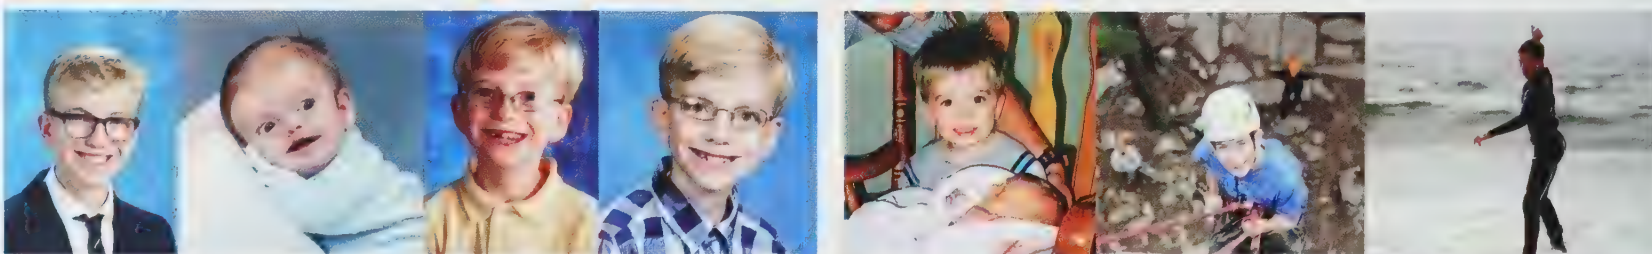

Nolan Smith

Everybody smiles as if they know a lovely secret when asked about Nolan. “Chill” they say; “jus Himself” they say; “just as we like him” they say. Quiet and contained, yet bold on the slopes and rugby pitch and bolder in his writing, art, singing and acting—he has cracked us up in roles such as Sir Benjamin Backbite. Next year, IB Diploma candidate Nolan enters Ryerson University with the hopes of gaining the knowledge and inspiration required to build his skills as a creative entrepreneur.

Even back then, they knew “Winter was coming”—defender of the Beach Wall and member of The elite Beach Buddy Boys Gang. A lifer, scholar and sportsman, Ethan plays b’ball from the heart and entertains the masses when he breaks out the “Stanky Leg Dance.” We know this lover of hashbrowns and talented Diploma candidate will succeed in business studies at UVic. We warn them, however, to watch out for—Stanger Danger.

Ethan Stanger

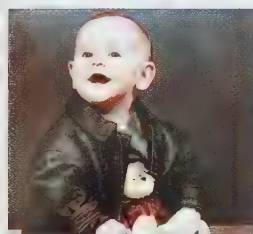

Jacob Startek

Startek: GNS uberdriver, aloe-vera juice addict, the boy who identifies all of his GNS uniform pieces with an actual star and then "tek" after it, and a hypebeast on fashion websites—Supreme Backback, Bape Shirts, Gucci Belt. Known for his love of sports—as well as fashion—in particular baseball and basketball, friends say Jacob has an infectious laugh, is loyal and caring, and easy to be around. As he heads to UVic for studies in history, Jacob will take with him fond memories of hanging out with the boys (and he will be taking some of the boys with him as his roomies).

Olivia enters any classroom with soulful eyes—soulful because she is soulful and also because she is hoping you will give her food. Ms. Easton calls her—fondly —'Little Piranha.' An actress, badminton player and IB Diploma candidate, Olivia is an independent woman with strong opinions, and over the years she has used her quick mind and logical skills on the GNS debate team. Next year, Olivia will cause more interesting debates in the political science department at the University of Victoria.

Olivia Stupak

Emily Thompson

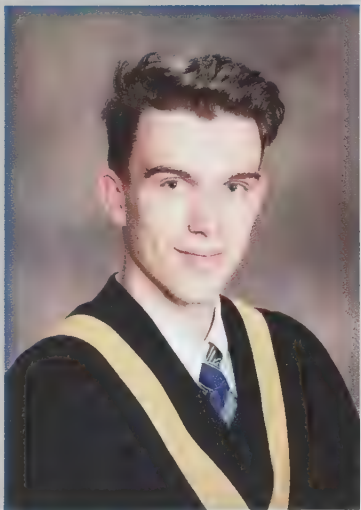

Despite her scholarly conscientiousness, Emily is a lively, artistic and improvisational wild child. She plays 11—yes 11—musical instruments and leaps about the basketball court. Some of her favourite memories include trips to Jimmy Chicken Island, Basketball Provincials, and the Disneyland and Hawaii Band trips—so anything outside the classroom. Next year, Emily will undertake the Music and Computer Science Program at the University of Victoria with the ultimate goal of becoming an architect or a music producer.

Like a Thai butterfly emerging from a chrysalis, Ploy's Grade 12 has been an annus mirabilis—Latin for an amazing year. Her friends say Ploy SEEMS quiet but actually has a LOT of opinions, and she has wowed us with her incredible work ethic and powers of organization. She will put these to excellent use in New Zealand, as she jets off to acquire a Kiwi accent and study Hospitality Management in the outdoor activity mecca of Queenstown.

Ploy Tisapramotkul

Liam Turner

With each new dawn, our dashing Liam would arrive by long-board and attempt to redefine outer gear as "forever 21" gear. A rower who is involved on and behind the stage, "Huston" or "Mission Mule" is upbeat and talkative, especially happy to debate the merits and minutiae of just about any film—preferably black and white and old and extremely rare. Aptly then, Liam will be immersed in Capilano University's School of Motion Picture Arts with an eye towards starting his own production company in Vancouver.

"Original:" Definition? Rebecca. She once initiated a cult that worshipped a baby deer goddess named Akinafa—who was also Rebecca. She acquired a teacher's mint candy supply—offering one back to the teacher with the beautiful manners of a sassy dark angel. In Senior School, she vanished from class - Arya Stark style—returning with a steaming mug of staff-room coffee. Next year, sportswoman and IB Diploma candidate Shanks will leave a trail of detailed doodles behind as she departs for biology at Queen Mary University of London, England.

Rebecca Vesey

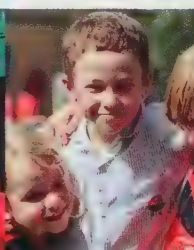

Alex Wells

Obviously the last and best of the Wells' family, Wellsy's polite persona only partially masks his naughty essence—in Middle School, Mr. Mais 'busted' Wellsy skipping lunch to source treats at the local Shell station. Alex will miss the many sports team opportunities, bro time with the 'boys' and seeing mum in the hallways. Awwwww. The University of Victoria's Sociology department gets the full attention of Speedy Brian next year as he prepares for a career in law enforcement.

Whether scoring a try in rugby, teching on the tech team, canoodling, or writing a bound book entitled "Mr. Wolf finds his Howl," Gabe is legendary. Star of his own memes and ex pro-player of League of Legends. A lover of outdoor ed, Gabe's not-so-creamy chicken was redeemed by his delightful thai noodles. Gabe Giggles White is a hoot, but is also a sensitive and intelligent young man who will commence child psychology at UVic because he wants to help kids.

Gabriel White

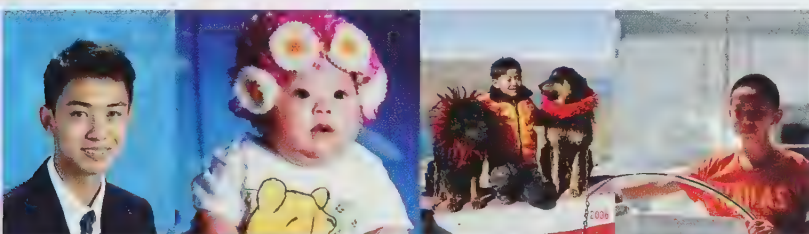

Albert Yang

Albert is really nice—he volunteers at senior centers as “grandchild on duty” and is a dedicated IB Diploma candidate. One day, Ms. Dallin told him to go out and have fun with his friends; Albert replied “but homework IS my friend.” Albert is the founder of the Phenomena Club—robotics—a club for young geniuses everywhere. Albert will study at Purdue University next year, and it is one of his life-missions to bring people together through technology—even Chats.

Emma’s timeless classiness never goes out of style. Running in competition with her friend Ali for best Buddha smile, Emma Bean is the gentlest sweetest lady in the world—except when our Athlete of the Year launches savagely and fearlessly into the rough and tumble of field hockey and rugby. An inspirational role model off and on the field, we will miss her. Next year, Emma will study nursing at Camosun with the goal of becoming a pediatric oncology nurse.

Emma Zarzour

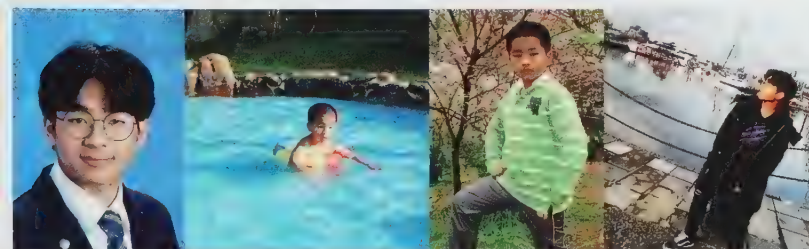

Harry Zhang

Harry has impeccable manners and carries himself with dignity. A man of integrity and a natural diplomat who tells charmingly self-deprecating jokes about himself. Harry works really hard at his IB Diploma, but finds time for badminton and band, and no matter how busy he is, will offer an encouraging word or commiserate with a peer. While we will miss Harry, we know The Engineers at UBC will enjoy the sparkle of his great big diamond earring.

Move over Beethoven—Lucy Zhang is in the house! And back out Mr Bach—Lucy says you won’t do! Our Lucy: musician, IB Diploma scholar, volunteer, teacher, author and friend. There is not a lot Lucy can’t do. Friends describe her as the one who is always prepared, but who freaks out whilst being prepared. They say she is super goofy, but super-goofy in the most reliable steadfast kind of way! Lucy’s plan is to study education at The University College of London. All the best to you, Loosey Goosey!
